THOMAS IN THE RACE

MUNCIE MAN MAY BE ELECTED PRESIDENT OF T. P. A.

Lively Business Session of the Convention at the German House-To-Day's Programme.

James G. Thomas's chances for victory in the race for the presidency of the Travelers' Protective Association, which is holding its fourteenth annual convention at the German House, are better than at any time since the convention began. The election will take place to-day. The presidential race continues to be the absorbing topic of interest to all the delegates.

Thomas has a greater show for election than he had yesterday because a combination was formed last night among the leadthe Indiana delegations, the delefrom Illinois and Pennsylvania and the representatives from some of the other States having the largest number of delegates. The combination is for Thomas and will manipulate its votes in such a way as to elect the Indiana man, it

That three or four of the Indiana delegates who have seemed to have a grudge against the Indiana candidate because he would not support an Indianapolis man for State president some years ago, will not be in line for Thomas seems certain. Another caucus yesterday failed to get the delegation into a solid line for Thomas and there is considerable fear on the part of the leaders of this delegation that the votes of a few of the Indianapolis delegation will go to Simons, if he runs, or to Louis Ochs, of New Orleans. A NEW CANDIDATE.

The fact that another candidate for president entered the field yesterday, W. W. Johnson, of Knoxville, Tenn., will not lessen Thomas's chances, it is thought. For the more the votes are divided the smaller will grow the support of the candidacy of Louis Ochs, W. R. Johnson, Neill McCoull of New York and J. R. Simons of Denver, Col., if he concludes to go into the race today, as a second dark horse. The States which have the smallest number of votes is where Thomas will lose by the field beup by Johnson and possibly by In the States of the combination, which have the largest representation in the convention he will not be hurt by the

The election may have to be postponed until this afternoon as the proposed constitutional amendments are likely to take up the entire morning session. There is even a possibility, it is said, that the convention might not get to the election until to-morrow, but this is not thought to be at all probable.

It is the intention of next year's convention and conclude the of the convention before the adjournment this afternoon, if possible, on account of the long discussion of the constitutional amendments exsected this morning and the election to follow it may be found necessary to hold a business session to-morrow morning.

PARLIAMENTARY ARGUMENT.

Delegates to the T. P. A. Convention

Engage in a Warm Debate. For noise and discussion not governed by parliamentary rules-to put it mildly-the meeting of the Travelers' Protective Association yesterday afternoon at the German House to consider the proposed amendments to the constitution was the star session of the convention. From beginning to end ing torrent of suggestions, objections, motions and cries of "Order!" from President

Peak, who occupied the chair. At least half the delegates-there were more than two hundred of them presenthad things to say, and insisted on expressing themselves whether the floor was occupied or not, and, though President Peak almost pounded a hole in the table with his gavel and asked for order until his voice weak it could hardly be heard in the rear of the auditorium, half a dozen delewere talking-or shouting-at the same time all afternoon.

And, after all, with their motions and sug- informe dtravelers in the convention. gestions and objections, it seemed that the delegates did not want to transact business very badly, for they started from the auditorium before a motion to adjourn had been adopted. The impromptu breaking up of the meeting was due to the announcement that chartered street cars would be ready to take the delegates to Broad Ripple Park in ten minutes. The meeting was concluded

OPENING OF CONVENTIONS.

"When we go to our national conventions we do not know whether our meetings are to be opened with a prayer or an address or a corkscrew," said Delegate E. W. Donham, of Cincinnati, when the proposition of the association having a national chaplain was being considered. "I know a good many of our delegates do not need prayer, but there are some of us who think it better for the association to have a national chaplain."

The patrolmen had not been in the parl ten minutes before all the pickpockets took sudden leave. The policemen remained close around the crowd all evening and kept a watch at the station, but no sign of pickpockets or hold-up men was seen again.
